

CHESAPEAKE CITY'S TOWN HALL 10 WELCOMES NEW EXHIBIT SEASON

Chesapeake City's Town Hall 10 art group welcomes several new area artists to create the Town Hall 10's second annual Spring-Summer gallery weekends. The exhibit features original works, demonstrations and opportunities to meet with these diverse artists. To celebrate the second season, the group is hosting an opening reception on Friday evening, May 9th, from 5pm until 8pm. The public is invited to come and meet the artists, view the exhibit, and enjoy some great conversation along with refreshments and light fare.

Chesapeake City's Town Hall, on the corner of Bohemia Avenue and Second Street, once again transforms into a working art gallery every Saturday (and many Sundays) from 11 until 5 from now through the month of October. The exhibit will change as work is sold. Each weekend is hosted by one of the Town Hall 10 artists and a schedule of which artist will be stationed in the gallery on a specific date is posted on Chesapeake City's Town Hall window.

The group is excited to welcome new members: Steve Gottlieb, photographer and author; Mark Hendron, graphite artist and photographer; Diane Joy Laird, watercolor/ pen and ink artist; and Barbara Tinsman, fiber artist. Returning artists are: Victoria Buckland, glass artist; Richard LeGates, photographer; Abigail McBride, oil painter, Carla Miners, graphic designer and illustrator; Patti Paulus, drawing and lettering artist; Donna Winterling, watercolor painter. All of the featured artists are professionals in their field and have a long list of credentials and awards to their names.
